A WARM WEEK.

Report of the General Weather Bureau on the Crop Conditions. Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The weather bureau in its report of the crop conditions for the week ended April 30, says that the week ending April 30 has been warmer than usual and has been the most favorable week of the season for farm work in all districts east of the Rocky mountains. It was unusually warm in the spring wheat region. It was cool in the district west of the Rockies and frost occurred, causing damage to vegetables and fruit in New Mexico and portions of California. The rainfall was greater than usual from the extreme northfornia. The rainfall was greater than usual from the extreme north-ward to Minnesota and the Dakotas, the heaviest rainfall occurring in the interior of Eastern Texas, where the excess ranged from one to three

The Pacific Coast States were fav ored by general showers from Washington southward to Central Califor nigton southward to Central Califor-nia which were generally beneficial, but some of the crops in California have been permanently injured by drought. The reports of about 1000 hop districts show that the weather was more favorable and all crops have been greatly improved. Farm work is in advance of the average season seeding is general over the greater part of the spring wheat region and corn planting is well under way.

ALWAYS FAIR. Congressman Breckinridge's Opinion of the American People. Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

the canvass saturacy afternoon at that place."

Speaking of the campaign Col. Breck-inridge said: "I feel confident that I will be nominated and elected. I do not care to outline my present plan of campaign, but my speeches will speak for themselves. It is my purpose to still be of use to my district and to my State in a legislative capacity, not-withstanding the mistakes which I frankly acknowledge, and ask no one to condone. The American people have always been generous and fair. I propose to endeavor to merit a fair and generous treatment at their hands and have confidence that an opportunity will be afforded me by my renomination and re-election to Congress."

Charge of Violating a United States Statute to Be Preferred Against the Men Arrested-Interviews With

Associated Press Leased-wire Scruice.
WASHINGTON, May 1.—The march of Coxey's Commonweal Army, which started from Massillon, O., on Easter Sunday, ended today by the interruption of the police. Fortunately there were no casualties, and tonight "Gen." Coxey is addressing his burlesque army in camp, while "Marshal" Carl Browne sleeps in a police station cell, and Christopher Columbus Jones, the eader of the Philadelphia commune, and the comedian of the movemen ndeavors to appropriate a share of the martyrdom in an adjoining cell.

The performance enacted within the of the Capitol today is with a counterpart in the memory of Washingtonians. Over the broad, smooth plaza of several acres facing the east of the Capitol was packed a crowd of men and women numbering 10,000. The Capitol steps and the porticos under the Grecian pillars were packed with people of both sexes, well dressed, and most of the members of Congress were in the throng.

An early adjournment had been taken by the Senate on account of the death of Senator Stockbridge, but the House, not wishing to seem to be terrorized the demonstration, went through the semblance of a session with a hundred city police reinforced the Capitol officers. Detectives from several cities were sprinkled through the crowd for the concentration of lawless local characters, gave just grounds for apprehensions of trouble apart from the presence of the Coxeyites. It was shortly after 11 a.m. when the army halted in the public square south of the grounds. Its five-mile march down from Brightwood through the witnessed by thousands. There were 500 men in line. Mrs. Annie L. Diggs, the Populistic agitator of Kansa, in a barouche, Coxey's 17-year-old daughter in white on a cream-colored steed, representing the Goddess of Peace, Carl Browne on a great gray stallian, "Gen." Jacob Coxey, his wife, the infant, "Legal Tender" Coxey, together in another carriage; Virginia La Vallette, said to be an actress, on horseback, draped in an American flag as the Philadelphia Commune's Goddess of Peace, and the unemployed carrying white flags of peace of staves and nondescript banners setting forth the doctrines of good roads and enmity to plutocrats were sprinkled through the caravan "Marshal" Browne halted the procession in the street, walked back to Coxey's carriage, the "general" kissed his wife and the two moving spirits, of the affair forced their way over the plaza to the Capitol steps, their men acting under orders and standing in their tracks. After Coxey and Browne came yelling crowd of several hun-dred men, most of them following Browne, who was conspicuous, because of his unique costume. Trampling and tearing its way through the costly shrubbery, the mob went while the squad of mounted police, which had neaded the parade was dazed for a moment by the unexpected move and then charged recklessly into their Coxey was confronted by the police as he took his hat off to speak, on the Capitol steps. His constitutional rights being refused, he thrust upon the Capitol steps. His constitutional rights being refused, he thrust upon them a printed protest, which proved to be a well-worded epitome of Populist doctrines. Meanwhile Carl Browne was being dragged by the collar of his coat through the crowd to the nearest station, after he had made a fight to retain his banner. Two police captains, a lieutenant and sergeant thrust the mild-mannered Coxey without violence back across several feet of humanity to his carriage. Mounted police were forcing their horses among the people, several of them cracking their clubs over the heads of the nearest persons; women were shrieking in terror; men were yelling fiercely, and some were that section of the mob in front of the east steps, which occupied an acre of the asphalt. Then the two agitating spirits having been removed and half a dozen particularly belligerent men having been taken in by the police, the disturbance was quelled without serious injuries to a single person.

Somehow the army was started off toward its new camp between double lines of police, followed by a mob of thousands cheering like demons for Coxey and Browne. Within an hour the Capitol grounds had almost regained their normal quiet with only a few hundred people strolling around.

THE GRAND MARCH. The "Procesh" Was a Most Fantastic Array

The Wind-up.
WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Commonweal Army was astir early today upon Brightwood Heights making preparations for a procession to the Capi-tol. There was an early breakfast of eggs, bread and coffee. Tents were packed into wagons, and the army was aligned before 12 o'clock. All the men carried staves, on which fluttered white flags with the motto: "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men, but Death to Interest on Bonds."

The men had passed a cold night most of them sleeping on the ground. Before the start Carl Browne formed Before the start Carl Browne formed the men into a hollow square and put them through a military drill. The staves were handled like guns, and when Browne shouted, "Glory and peace," they cheered three times and waved the sticks in the air.

waved the sticks in the air.

The Philadelphia commune, sixty strong, stood on the sidewalk waiting to fall in. "Oklahoma Sam" galloped up and down the line. The bass drum boomed dismally and bag pipes emitted a shrill scream. After a march twice around the grounds the men were drawn up in line and more cheers and drilling followed.

BROWNE HARANGUES.

BROWNE HARANGUES. Browne harangued the men in cus tomary street-fakir strain, telling then they had received permission to march to the Capitol grounds, where they must disband and enter as individua must disband and enter as individual citizens.

"Whether or not we will be permitted to speak I cannot say," he added, "but you must be careful to preserve the peace. Then we will reform and march to the new camp near by. This demonstration will be more powerful than force, than guns or bombs."

The ragged army cheered wildly.

Browne went on: "People said we could not march up Pennsylvania avenue when we reached here. Yet, the police department informed Brother. Coxey yesterday that we could march. Mr. Crisp refused yesterday to allow us to speak on the Capitol steps. We did not see the Vice-President. We will go into the Capitol grounds as individuals, they cannot prevent us doing that."

dividuals, they cannot prevent us doing that."

THE MARCH BEGINS.

At 10:15 the Industrial Army was ready, and out of Brightwood Driving Park it started for the city. As the caravan worked its way down the three-mile stretch of woods to the city it was a most fantastic array.

Nine mounted policemen rode shead. Then came Carl Browne in a buckskin suit, mounted on a big gray Percheron stallion and waving a small flag. Next was a creamy-white prancing circus steed, beaging Miss Mamie Coxey in the role of Goddess of Peace. She is a slender, handsome girl of 17, with long golden hair, and she wore a pure white riding habit. Her head was covered by a little rimless blue cap and she shaded her face with a tiny parasol. Altogether she was a picture of such unusual beauty that a spontaneous cheer greeted her unexpected appearance all along the line.

THE "GENERAL."

THE "GENERAL." "Oklahoma Sam" followed on an-other stallion. Next came a marshal, bugler, flag-hearer and a band of six bugler, flag-bearer and a band of sky pieces playing "Marching Through Georgia." A banner with a portrait of Carl Browne and the legend "Death to Interest on Bonds," was borne after a light buggy, decorated with flags and drawn by two black horses, in which sat "Gen." Coxey himself beside Mrs. Coxey, a handsome young woman in a colored tailor-made gown, shading with a parasol the white-robed infant. "Legal Tender" Coxey, aged 2 years. Then marching two by two were the carriages of the Communes. Before the Communes was a committee in a wagon drawn by two Percherons. The wagon canvas was covered with a weird allegorical illustration, "The Curse of National Banks." Small flags fluttered in the hands of the marshals, Flags symbolic of the financial banners were sprinkled along at intervals.

ANOTHER GODDESS OF PEACE.

Finally the long, weird shriek of the bagpipes heralded the Philadelphia Finally the long, weird shriek of the bagpipes heralded the Philadelphia Commune, from the City of Brotherly Love. Then came the Goddess of Peace, "an unknown." She rode a wagon horse. She is a good-looking, red-cheeked maiden of 18, draped in the Stars and Stripes with not inartistic effect. Her escort was the leader of Philadelphia's contingent, Christopher Columbus Jones, an old man, perched on a cavorting coal-black stallion, to which he clung desperately.

From Mount Pleasant to the Capitol grounds the men mayched between rows of people three deep. There were about a hundred "wealers" in line. Scattered along the army were about a score of representatives of labor organizations, and as many detectives from large cities.

In the city the crowd interfered with the passing army and the police were kept busy. Coxey doffed his hat several times in response to cheers.

The J. S. Coxey Club which was organizated today by 125 bricklayers, met at Boundary street. At Thomas Circle Marshal Browne ordered a halt for rest, while the men gave three cheers for "Peace."

The police dashed up and .upon. their command the army promptly moved.

The Commonwealers turned into Pennsylvania avenue at 12:15 and this telegram from Harrisburg was handed and dismounted. He turned over his horse to an attendant, and then he went horse to an attendant, and then he went to Coxey's carriage and spoke to the "general." Coxey kissed his wife and sprang from the carriage and made his way toward the entrance to the Capitol. Browne followed, bearing a banner. The rank and file of the army stood in the street. Officers spurred their own horses after Coxey and Browne. B street was impassable.

and with a bound was inside a fence amid a tangle of shrubbery. Browne followed. The first officer tied his horse to the fence, climbed the fence at a bound and darted into the shrubbery. Other officers followed. Small trees, bushes and flower beds went down before the sweep of the horsemen and the yelling crowd which followed.

Coxey and Browne dodged through the bushes to the open area at the east front. There was a crash when the fugitives, officers and mob from the streets met a wall of officers and people in the open. The people shouted. Coxey and Browne were lost for a moment. The policemen stemmed the rush after a minute, one officer using his baton freely. Coxey slipped unobserved through the struggling mass his baton freely. Coxey slipped unob-served through the struggling mass and bounded up the east front entrance to the Capitol.

Great crowds recognized him and a shout went up from every corner. Coxey tufned to the crowd and raised his hat. He was pale. Capt. Garden of the Capitol police stepped to the side of him and Lieut. Kelly of the city police held the other arm. The officers formed solidly about him. The crowd below was kept back by menacing clubs.

asked Capt. Garden.

Coxey. His voice showed intense emo-

At the first step the great crowd greeted Coxey and officers with shouts. Again the mounted police charged and it looked as if there would be trouble, but a little knot of officers pressed forward with Coxey in the center. Flanked by mounted officers, Coxey made his exit from the Capitol entrance. He tossed the type-written protest to a group of newspaper men saying: "That is for the press." There was no formal arrest. Coxey turned toward the army, which still stood on B street.

and the most aggressive portion of the crowd followed him. As Browne broke, through the foliage half a dozen mounted police charged after him.

When he reached the foot of the Capitol steps there was an exciting dialogue between him and the police. Policemen threw themselves upon Browne, grabbed the flag, smashed the staff, seized Browne by the shoulders and thrust him through the crowd several hundred feet to the sidewalk. A club descended upon men's shoulders, but whether Browne was hit could not be seen. The officers rushed him through the crowd, he trying to shelter his head and shouting had escorted Coxey to a carriage he clambered into the vehicle and a loud cheer went up from the crowd. Then the policemen lost their heads and falling upon the luckless colored women, clubbed them.

The army had not broken ranks in all this tumuit. The humble bass drummer started a rythmic "boom" upon the instrument, and the Commonwealers fell into step, and, with Coxey ers fell into step, and, with Coxey bowing to the right and left amid wild sheers, the procession turned down second street to the south, and started to the new camp in the malarious re-gion, at the extreme southern part of the city.

Christopher Columbus Jones of the Philadelphia contingent was also arrested. He and Browne will be arrested. He and Browne will be arraigned in the Police Court tomorrow on the charge of the violation of the special act of Congress against assemblages in the Capitol ground. The army, as it marched down Second street, was followed by hundreds of poorly-dressed men and women, who cheered it all the way without intermission and shouted leudly for Coxey and Brown.

LONDON, May 1.—Dispatches eived here form the different capitals of Europe show that May day has without any serious disturbance. In this city, the Anarchists received a lesson from a mob in Hyde Park and the Socialists made a demonstration in the same place.

All was quiet at Berlin and Vienna, lthough meetings of workmen and others were dispersed by the police in both these cities. A large meeting was held at Marseilles, but no serious disturbance took place. At Hamme, Belgium, there was some rioting, but order was soon restored by the police.

order was soon restored by the police. May day passed off quielly in Paris and throughout France generally. No May day disorders occurred in Rome or any other parts of Italy. Or derly meetings were held in other leading towns of the continent.

A procession of Socialists, numbering several thousand persons, formed near Black Friars bridge and marched to Hyde Park. All those who took part in the procession wore a piece of red ribbon in their buttonholes. The procession was headed by a band of music and thousands of flags were carried by them. Some of these flags were draped and others were red and inscribed with such mottoes as "Down with the Masters;" "Prepare for the Coming Revolution," etc.

the party may be barely divided. The resolution among the Illinois Democrats in Washington on this subject has already become very earnest, and gives an intimation how intense the fight will be when the final test comes.

Senator Palmer, Comptroller of the Currency Eckles and First Assistant Postmaster-General Jones will, it is said, insist on an unqualified indorsement of Cleveland's financial policy. They will carry from Washington a ready-made plank to be inserted in the platform, and will be met with the resistance of the silver men, of whom Messrs. Williams, Fithian and McDonald are the leaders. Mr. Fithian, in a speech accepting the Congressional nomination a few days ago at Greenup, repudiated President Cleveland's view on the money question, and Mr. Lane, another of the Southern Illino's members, has asserted that the President ought to be impeached for his veto of the Bland Seigniorage Bill.

Congressman Forman, who represents Col. Morrison's old Congress district, is not liable to be with his Southern friends when this question comes before the convention. He voted for unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, and is known to be an administration man. Cleveland looks to the Chicago Democrats to come to his rescue in this fight and prevent the Illinois Democracy from being committed to free silver. A large majority of the rural Democrats are said to be partial to the white metal.

GRATZ (Austria,) May I.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Great anxiety is expressed for the safety of the members of the cave explorers who have been imprisoned since Saturday in a newly-discovered stalactite cavern near Sourach, Syria. The party of explorers was imprisoned by an inrush of water, and the relief party, which has been attempting to rescue them, has been obliged to stop work on account of the floods.

Miles of Desolation on the St. Anne.

The Immense Landslides Cause Awful Devastation.

Farmhouses, Granaries and Cattle are Carried Off.

lleged Miraculous Escape of a Buried Pamity-The River Rises Sixty Feet-A Thundering Roar and the ST. ALBANS (Quebec.) May 1.-Sam Gauthier, a farmer of St. Albans, his wife, Emily, their sons, Joseph and David, and a brother, are buried under a hundred feet of earth by the terrible landslide of Friday last. The principal scene of the accident is eighteen mile rom the nearest telegraph station, and this is the reason why news of the ter-rible freak of nature was not given sooner to the outside world.

For miles there is nothing but desola-tion, where the St. Anne was once nearly a mile wide, it is now only a nearly a mile wide, it is now only a narrow stream, raging and surging in a vain attempt to break its new bounds. Woods, houses and cattle are all gone, and nothing is left but barren ground of uneven height for six miles back. Here and there the debris of the ill-fated farmhouses, granaries and outhouses are seen in little heaps, tangled up with uprooted trees and carcasse of dead cattle, but most of it has been swept into the river and carried long since into the St. Lawrence and then swept into the river and carried long since into the St. Lawrence and thence toward the ocean.

The shores of the river are of peculiar formation, and rise 150 feet above the level of the water, except for a mile or so, where the slide occurred. Here for almost seven miles back the earth has a gentle declivity, and is nearly level with the river, whose bed has risen at least sixty feet. What the scene must have been when the earth began to move can be imagined. The lower soil of the river bank is composed of clay, honeycombed by the water, that for years has filtered through from the mountains. It was 6 o'clock in the evening when these clay banks caved, and with thousands of tons of sand on top slid into the river. The farmers were just preparing for supper. The noise was terrific, but was followed by sudden calm, for the roar of the falls had been smothered in the rumbling earth. The ground, however, kept on vibrating as from an earth-quake, and the farmers for miles around rushed out of their houses for shelten, which they did not know where to find.

After the first panic was somewhat aliayed they went back, but the river had slowly risen, the snow and ice, which are still plentiful here, helping to strengthen its power. The water rose for miles. It was fully one hundren feet high when the earth began again moving, first slowly, then taker, and finally so fast that those who were fleeling were thrown down. It is a miracle, indeed, that no more human lives were lost.

The ground near the river slipped off first, and the first house was that of the Gauthiers, which shared the fate of the pulp mills further down by the first break in the shore. There is not the slightest doubt but the poor Gauthier family are dead. When the landside started the house was seen to be on fire, and even find they not been buried or smothered to death they must have been crushed under the immense quantities of earth that kept sliding on top of them. No one is really certain as to the exact spot where they were buried, and it is possible the bodies may never be recovered.

It is difficult to exactly describe the sible the bodies may never be recovered.

It is difficult to exactly describe the state of affairs. The debris of the houses and the dead animals are situated in what was before Friday the middle of the river. Even today it is impossible to cross the river, although an attempt will be made to vepair the bridge at St. Albans this afternoon. All the boats from miles around have been swept away. Thousands of people crowded the banks and point out to one another where the forms of their friends stood.

Union Pacific Affairs Discussed by the House Committee.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Today's session of the House Committee on Pacific Railroads was given up to the hearing on behalf of the reorganization plan of the Union Pacific in consideration of the payment of the debt of that road to the United States. These gentlemen were present at the meeting: A. H. were present at the meeting: A. H. Boissevain of Holland, C. H. Coster of New York, Col. L. H. Higginson of Boston, Louis Fitzgerald of New York, S. Carr of Boston, members of the Reorganization Committee; F. L. Stetson, J. W. Simpson and Victor Morrowetz, counsel of Reorganization Committee; O. W. Mink, E. H. Anderson, F. R. Coudert and Mr. Dean, receivers, and S. H. H. Clark, president of the company.

O. W. Mink, E. H. Anderson, F. R. Coudert and Mr. Dean, receivers, and S. H. H. Clark, president of the company.

Mr. Boissevain of Holland, representing the holders of Union Pacific securities in that country, first addressed the committee in the interests he represented, and believed that prompt action was necessary and imperative so that the Reorganization Committee would not have to wait too long before beginning its work. He could not indorse the proposition in the Attorney-General's bill concerning the liem proposed to be given to the government in the reorganization statement, and said that he thought the branch lines should be left out of such lien. Mr. Boissevain said he represented between $10,000,000 and $40,000,000 of. the company's securities.

Mr. Morrowitz, one of the counsel for the reorganization, said the counsel for the reorganization, said the counsel for the reorganization, so the counsel for the reorganization statement of littgation arising as a possible result of the proposed reorganization. Mr. Morrowitz submitted the form of a bill which had been prepared by the Reorganization Committee and which, he said, was identical with the bill prepared by the Attorney-General with the exception of sec. 8, which provides in detail for the manner in which foreclosure proceedings shall be taken in case of default in respect of any obligation or condition for which any lien now exists in favor of the United States upon any property of the company.

Following Morrowitz, the committee heard statements from a number of members of the Reorganization Committee and counsel, during which the history of the steps taken to bring about the reorganization was gone over. There seemed to exist in their minds the belief that the extending of the government lien over the entire system of the Union Pacific as proposed would prove a serious obstacle to the carrying out of the plan of reorganization.

The committee adjourned until romorrow when counsel for the Central Pacific will appear.

ground for occupancy, while Coxey drove over to the officers of the district commissioner with an eye to business. He made application of them for the necessary license to charge admission to his camp. The commissioners desired to consider the proposition so acting upon their suggestion, Coxey went to the clerk and by paying $5 secured a license for one day only.

"I have no complaint," said Coxey, "to make as far as the police are concerned. They treated me with great consideration for they had to carry out the law, even if it was an unjust one. My speech-making, however, at the Capitel is over and I shall not again attempt it. It would be of no use. The American eagle did a good deal of squealing; today but that was to be expected. The authorities pinched him rather hard. He'll have his say, however, sooner or later."

The most serious chapter of the affair for Washington, the problem of what is to be done with the army, remains unsolved. Coxey has no intention of leading his men away and still declares that the movement has just begun, that they will stay here until Congress provides for them by passing his bills. Late in the afternoon Browne's bait was fixed at $500. Mrs. Emily Briggs, a wealthy resident of this city, and Mrs. Anna Hahn, a prominent labor sympathizer, undertook the bond, and the "chief marshal" was set free: Mrs. Briggs conveyed him in her carriage to her home, where he took dinner, and then returned to the army in its new camp near the river.

Shortly afterward Coxey made his uppearance in the tent and listened with careful attention to the "marthal's" account of his arrest. After mastering the situation he had the

THE DENVER RESERVE. DENVER, May 1.-There was an in-DENVER, May 1.—There was an insignificant gathering of the members of Coxey's home reserve at Lincoin Park this afternoon. A meeting had been called to increase the strength of the organization, but on learning of the arrest of Browne and Jones in Washington a meeting was immediately held and those who caused the arrest were denounced. The following opinions were expressed by the sympathizers of the Coxey movement:

Gov. Waite. They have an elephant on their hands. Nobody knows, of course, what will be the result. It may arouse some feeling of indignation and probably will, but I hardly think it will arouse some reeing of indignation and probably will, but I hardly think it will lead to a revolution. There is no question but that citizens have a right to go to Washington in person, and if the government manifested reasonable sense in the matter they ought to get along. The government ought not to be scared by 500 or 1000 men going to the Capitol with petitions. I have faith in the intelligence and virtue of the people and believe they will accomplish their wishes by the ballot. Hegwer, commander-in-chief of the Coxey home reserve. SOUTHERN PACIFIC HISTORY.

Disclosures in a Sensational Suit Against the Railroad Company.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—A highly sensational complaint against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was filed here today by John R. Robinson. It demands an accounting. Robinson alleges that he was defrauded of ten shares of the stock of the Central Pacific Railroad in 1877. At that time the complainant alleges the stock was worth $1,200,000 in cash and 15,050 acres of land held in trust by the company, but to which the directors claimed private ownership. Robinson prays for judgment for $1,200,000 with legal interest from April 27, 1877, and 15,050 acres of land or its equivalent in money. A sensational feature of the case is that Attorney A. A. Cohen, while supposedly a bitter enemy of the railroad company, was really in their employ, drawing $10,000 a year, and that while serving in that capacity he contracted with Robinson to conduct a lawsuit by which Robinson sought to establish the fact that he had been defrauded of the stocks and proposition which he now.

The circumstances of the death, which was due to hemorrhage of the lungs, was of a most distressing character. When found Perry was lying on the floor, his face bathed in blood from a washbasin overturned near by. It appears that he had, on being taken with the hemorrhage, seized the basin and proceeded to the room of the house-keeper, at whose door he knocked. Before receiving a reply he returned to his room and almost immediately expired. The police were notified and it was decided to place the remains in the care of the Coroner. Millionaire Scott Mixed Up in His Son's Divorce Case.

Associated Press Leasact-wire Service.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—John Scott, the millionaire coal-shipper of this city and Boston, was today sued for $100,000 damages. The plaintiff is his daughter-in-law. The divorce granted in Deadwood, S. D., has been set aside by the court there and the case, will have to be tried over. The first that Mr. Scott knew of the marriage of his son, Mifflin Scott, to Erwig Elvira Morchen, was his meeting the couple at Southamption, England, on their bridal trip while he, with his wife and daughter, was about starting for a tour on the continent. Mr. Scott sent the bridegroom back to his studies at Heldelburg which he did not know he had left until he saw him as a benediet on the deck of the steamship. The bride he took with his wife and daugnter on his trip, where, for a time all seemed to flave gone well, except that young Mrs. Scott complained that her father-in-law was very curious about her past life.

This state of things, however, was interrupted by a letter addressed to the son, which in the son's absence the father opened. This letter was from a midwife in Eerlin, who claimed that young Scott owed her a bill for services rendered his wife. In the letter was a full account of an operation of her sister and Erwin's name was used in association with a young German named Fritz Theissen, whom she had met at Coblentz in November of 1890, some five months before her marriage. On reading the letter Scott went himself to Glasgow with his son's wife and placed her in the home of her sister, the wife of a Presbyteriam minister. He did not leave Scottand until he had received word from his daughter-in-law that Theissen had betrayed her while he was at Coblentz. Scott admits having secured this confession and says that it was made by the girl of her own free will. The family then left Erwig with her sister, and returned to this country, and young Scott went to Deadwood to study law. After the proper time of residence he filed a petiti 1891. On this the divorce now set aside was granted.

In here complaint, the wife charges that the divorce was fraudulently obtained without her knowledge in pursuance of a conspiracy between the father and the young man, and insists that the child was his, and declares that the confession was extorted from her by Scott under threats of withdrawal of all support.

So incalculable is the financial cost of these engines of destruction that already European statesmen are discussing the possibility of an international compact under whose terms the building of these fortress-ships may be suspended. Farragut once wisely said that he should prefer a fleet of ships of oak, manned by hearts of iron, to ships of iron with hearts of oak.

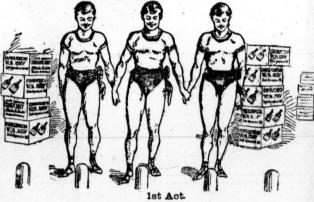

In the bankrupting race for naval power, the United States is advancing with the rest, and her battleships—Massachusetts, Oregon and Indiana, with many other formidable vessels, are afloat or far advanced in construction. It was a matter of great interest to millions of people from the remote inland States to see the fac simile of these great engines of war displayed at the Columbian Fair, with the calm waters of Lake Michigan rippling around her. Even the vagaries of Gov. Waite will hardly suffice to freing Admiral Benham's fleet up the Platte River, and this battleship Illinois afforded to the prairie people their only chance of seeing what a $2,000,000 battleship was like. From a few rods distant no one could he told this construction on piles f a floating fortress; there were the rets and guns, the torpedo nets tubes, the conning tower and military masts, and the battery of thirteen-inch rifled cannon and rapid-firing, gatling and torpedo guns. Here, also, dwelt a crew of blue jackets from the regu-lar navy, with their gun and boat drills, torpedo exercises and practice with the range-finders' search lights, squadrons. This admiral object lesson, the invention of Capt. R. W. Meade, U.S.N., is among the things illustrated and very fully described in the new Book of the Builders," written by Directors Burnham and Millet, as a rich and copious illustrated history of the grandest fair the world has ever seen. The splendid and costly popular edition of this $1000 book is now ready for sale in a limited quantity, to subscribers and readers of the Los Angeles Times.

POETIC JUSTICE.

As The Times has heretofore observed, the Cleveland administration is not entitled to much sympathy beof the awkward dilemma in Coxey and his vagabond followers have placed it. For years the ocratic party, through its press and its spokesmen, has invited the very conditions, social and political, which have now developed. It has cajoled ondoted, and wheedled the thriftles tion. Seeking to pose as the champion of labor, it has lost no opportunity influence the employed class against employing class. It has thrown to all the other crank isms which are the disease of the political fabric. It has condoned disorder. It has de-fended lawlessness as a virtue. It has ione all in its power to elevate anarca ism into patriotism.

For years the Democratic party has been an open sewer, into which have poured the foul and festering streams of industrial rancor, of social discontent of political heresy, of treason to consti any wonder that this sewer is choked t, with its own foulness?

from the tenor of his article we should imagine that he must have viewed it through a glass—a magnifying glass, of course. Mr. Boruck starts out with the assumption that there are three million unemployed men, representing fifteen million people, or almost one-quarter of the entire population of the country. This is certainly a remarkable "fact" to start with, and after that it is not surprising to find that by the 4th of March, 1897, the whole country will have become pauperized, with the exception of Cleveland, Gresham and Carliele The remedy which Mr. Bor tion of affairs is a very simple onethis matter, that the price is a high or rather two simple ones. He would one, and compound interest will apply "the bludgeon and the sandbag"

reasons why every citizen should favor this measure:

"The purpose of this bill is to prevent the criminals and gaupers of Europe from being sent here as immigrants. Statistics show that much too large a proportion of the immigrants now coming here are incapable of self-support. By the last census, the percent of persons born in foreign countries is 14.77, and yet this census shows that 26 per cent. of the white prisoners confined in Jalis and simple prisons are persons of foreign birth. The total number of white convicts in our penitentiaries whose birth-place is known, is 28,440, composed of 13,715 native born and 14,725 foreign born, showing that more than one-half of all our white convicts are of foreign birth. Our benevolent institutions contain 69,962 inmates by the last census, . . . of which the foreign born compose 24 per cent. The total number of the white immates of our poorhouses . . is 63,696, of which number 27,648, or a little over 51 per cent, were born in foreign countries. These statistics show that with a foreign population of 14.77 per cent., more than half of our white penitentiary convicts and more than half of the white inmates of our poorhouses, are foreigners, and prove that of the immigrants country. Apart from all sarcasm, however, such rot as this, printed in a journa which pretends to represent a respectable element of the community, is really more dangerous than the march to Washington movement, with which the papers are now full. We do not feel particularly surprised when, during such hard times as now prevail, a num ber of demagogues succeed in inducing foolish men to do things for which they will afterward be sorry, but it is a subject for legitimate surprise that mates of our poorhouses, are foreigners, and prove that of the immigrants coming here during the past few years too many of them are deficient in morals, and are incapable physically of self-support. Foreign countries not only encourage immigration of criminals and paupers, but use public money to pay their, expenses here. This fact seems to be a sufficient reason why so large a percentage of immigrants so soon find themselves in our prisons and poorhouses. The means adopted have been found wholly inadequate to keep out of the excluded list. The superintendent of immigration states that during the six months ending December 31, 1893, 183,028 immigrants arrived, and 1258 of them were debarred, as falling within the list excluded by the law, less than 1 per cent. The examination on the arrival of the immigrants must necessarily be wholly insufficient to determine whether the immigrant belongs to the excluded class or not, and in many instances where the immigrant has made the long journey to the place of examination, and, perhaps, has expended his all in the undertaking, symduring times like these, when the situa calmness on part of all patriotic Ameri cans, that a reputable journal should be found capable of publishing such dangerous twaddle, the only result of which can be to further inflame the minds of the masses, who are at pres ent suffering under ills, some of which are real and others fancied, but none of manner which Mr. Boruck suggests has great responsibilities upon it. With few exceptions, it has hitherto proved equal to the responsibility. Mr. Boruck's paper is one of the exceptions.

"DO OUR VOTES COUNT?"

vising and framing a plan to secure greater purity in primary elections, will find valuable ideas in a little pamphlet issued by John Murray, Jr., of Nord-noff, Ventura county. We quote a few off, Ventura county. of the opening paragraphs:

DO OUR VOTES COUNT? Your vote is your opinion on paper; does it count? Under favorable circumstances you might sell it for $5, out as the opinion of an honest citizen

cluded by virtue of its provisions. This The answer to all this is that your trine of self-preservation demands that tion. Not only that, but it is demanded of us by the duty which we owe to our own citizens—those who have been born little?

The answer to all this is that your opinion on election day may cost some official his place; whereas your opinion expressed in a petition may be only a demand for abstract justice.

But what can we do?

Is it possible to make a successful fight against money, power and trickery for the sake of mere principle?

Few honest men are rich, few are powerful, and the motto of our politicians is, "You get nothing for nothing." Discouraging as all this is, it may serve to show us where our true strength lies; and the conclusion that I come to is that, to make a reform movement 'successful, we must not depend on money, we must refuse to be helped by influence, and learn that the professional politician is always with us but never for us.

One thing more (the knowledge of which gives me courage to propose my own method as a partial solution of our difficulties), any plan for destroying the power of the machine which has us by the throat must be so simple, plain and straightforward that poor men can work it.

Are we represented? If you ask your and straightforward that poor men can work it.

Are we represented? If you ask your neighbor why he voted for Smith to fill the office of State Senator, he will say, "Because I thought him a better man than Jones, who ran against him." Here is where all the trouble lies. A voter, on his way to the polls, never stops to consider who among his neighbors would best fill the position of Sheriff. County Clerk or State Senator. Two men have been picked out for him and between them he can choose. He may think that both men are mad, and knows that his neighbors are of the same opinion, but nothing are mad, and knows that his neignbors are of the same opinion, but nothing can be done. The primaries have been worked, the convention run, and to refuse to vote will probably assist the worst one of the two candidates. "In no party are the citizens at large permitted to select their candidate, sening that they are found for them and forced on them by the professionals

The Australian ballot, accompanied by stringent election laws, has given us absolute equality and fair dealing at the polis. It cannot be at this step in the proceedings, therefore, that boss rule controls the selection of office-holders.

In the performing of all jugglers' tricks there is a moment, unseen by the audience, when the rabbit must be put into the old gentleman's hat in order that it may pop out at the right time, to the astonishment of everybody. This supreme moment in politics (covered up by a great show of fair and square dealings and windy talk—like its counterpart on the stage) may be found at the convention, the stronghold of deals, trades, bosses and all that is bad in politics.

In a typical convention every motion introduced has been decided upon in secret session, every candidate with chance of election pledged to a division of spoils, and every reform movement or independent voter promptly smothered.

But there is little use in throwing stones at a dead dog. The evils that I

The next point to be considered is—who goes to the convention? Are delegates, as a rule, the representative men of the community? This question also answers itself, and as a matter of fact needs no discussion. Undoubtedly good men do sometimes find themselves within the charmed circle of pickers and choosers, but only to see that they within the charmed circle of pickers and choosers, but only to see that they might as well have stayed at home. But where does the power come from that the convention wields with such tremendous force? From the primary—where everybody is supposed to vote and nobody does—where every corrupt scheme with a hope of success must be represented, and where the citizen can vote only with the consent of the Central Committee. It can be truthfully said that one vote at the primary is worth ten yotes on election day.

REFORM NEEDED.

The Grand Jury Files a Partial Report.

Bonds of Some City Officials Are Insufficient.

Weak Spots Are Pointed Out in County Affairs.

The Lack of a Proper System of Checks ! Greatly Deplored, and a Correction of Abuses Suggested-A

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the grand jury, which has been in session now nearly two months, returned to Judge Smith a partial report of the work accomplished and the ground covered by their investigation. Apparently the jury has been thorough in its search for faults and weak points in the city and county governments, as the following text of their findings

THE REPORT.

"The grand jury has examined and passed upon the matters referred to in this partial report, and still has a large amount of business to deal with. The growth of the city and county, and the large volume of public busi-ness, together with the long gap be-tween this and the last degal grand Jury, have imposed an unusually heavy labor on this body. In the course of our work we have already examined 235 witnesses. "The general result of our investigations thus far we may summarize as follows: Sufficient care is not taken in regard to either the capacity or the character of the deputies and subordi-nates in the public service. Merit should be the sole reason for appoint-ment to subordinate public office, and should be the sole reason for appointment to subordinate public office, and efficient and honest service should be a guarantee against partisan removal. "We find a lack of method and system in the public business, which inevitably creates extravagance and waste, and which in only too many cases has led to the verge of felony. No such temptation as the present lack of system and checks offers, in portions of the public service, should be allowed to exist. We call attention to the urgent need of reform in this matter, not only to prevent the embezzlement or waste of public property and public money, but to avoid, so far as possible, the placing of temptation in the path of public officials. We shall particularize on these matters in this and subsequent reports.

"The charter of the city of Los Angeles provides, in many ways, for an unbusiness-like transaction of public affairs. Under this system there can never be thorough harmony nor satisfactory efficiency. A new chanter, removing these objections, is a cryon need of our rapidly-growing city. We believe the time has come when citzens must study and strive for a believe the time has come when cit-izens must study and strive for a local government that will have at least the capacity for economical and efficient administration of public af-fairs, and which can be firm and just. We report more fully on the matters that have come before us in what follows, and file herewith the full report of details, whenever these are deemed of sufficient importance.

BONDS OF PUBLIC OFFICERS. "The grand jury has examined the bonds of the public officials within the county of Los Angeles. In some cases the bonds are insufficient to protect the public. Of these we call special at-tention to that of the Superintendent of Streets of the city. The bond of this official is $10,000. The present Su-perintendent of Streets has handled, $97,808 up to February 16, 1894, and his predecessor. Hutchinson, handled, $97,808 up to February 16, 1894, and his predecessor. Hutchinson, handled, within the space of sixty days (May and June, 1892.) $69,875, and had, all told, during the two years of his administration, $235,845 pass through the office, and, perhaps, etil more unaccounted for. Among the bondsmen of City Treasurer Shoulters, we find John S. Park and A. D. Childress, formerly connected with the City Bank, now insolvent. A new bond should be given by the City Treasurer with substitutes for these sureties. Also R. B. Brown upon this bond is since deceased. There should be some special official designated to see that the financial condition of the bonds is kept latact, where they would become otherwise either by the death or the failure of the bondsmen. We find numerous cases where one citizen is upon several bonds of public officials. In several bonds of public officials. In some cases the aggregate liability is very large. More care should be ex-ercised in this matter. We believe that very large. More care should be exercised in this matter. We believe that substituting a bondsman upon a bond is not so safe as making a new bond. We herewith give a copy of the affidavit used in some of the city official bonds. . . . "And we call attention to the fact that a large percentage of the bondsmen were not qualified to sign said bond in acordance with said affidavit.

The Recorder deserves special support in his efforts to break up the practice of filing, at the expense of the county, certificates of tax sales sold to individuals. The practice has been to file these certificates at the expense of the county. These numbered during last year $255. The Recorder has very propuals. The practice has been to file these certificates at the expense of the county. These numbered during last year 2555. The Recorder has very properly refused to file these certificates unless the fees were paid. The Recorder has recently followed the present usage in many of the Northern counties in endeavoring to secure uniformity in the forms of deeds and mortgages so that the books of record may be printed to correspond. A considerable saying has already been accomplished in copying by this method. We urge the public and especially the members of the bar and real estate dealers to assist in this commendable effort to reduce the cost of this work.

"This office for the year 1893 cost $19,948.31 and brought in $29,042.01, showing a net profit to the county of $29093.76. The work of this office is well systematised, and the different departments no longer conflict with each other. By this means the public business is facilitated. A system of indexing has been adopted, by which much time is saved when it becomes necessary to search for any document, record or exhibit. The arrangement for the preservation and care of blanks used in this office, and the plan of having the books made with the body of the documents which are to be recorded therein already printed are greatly in the interest of economy. "By the preservation of great registers and other supplies left over from the last election a saving of several thousand dollars will be effected in the expenses of the coming election.

COUNTY ASSESSOR.

"We find some work in this office fairly well done. The Assessor has not exercised the proper care in the collection of the personal-property tax, nor in placing checks upon his deputies. The deputies in this office have a particularly responsible position, and almost all handle a considerable amount of money, and more care should be exercised in their selection than seems to have been done heretofore.

"The Assessor took no measures to check up the accounts of Al Cobier, when informed by members of a former grand jury of the embezzlement of taxes by this deputy, while the present grand jury continued the investigations, resulting in the several indictments against Cobier, which have already been made public. We find discrepancies in the assessment of personal property between the county and city assessors, to the disadvantage of the county, and there are similar discrepancies in the assessment of land. "A former deputy district attorney gave an opinion to the Assessor that he was entitled to deduct a commission of 15 per cent. for collecting the road poil tax. The District Attorney's office now declares this to be an illegal charge. A case covering this point is now before the Supreme Court from San Luis Obispo county, and, by stipulation of the County Assessor, the decision of this case will determine whether or not the $1348.50 commission on road poil tax retained by him shall be returned to the treasury.

"The County Assessor now receives in salary and fees about $60,000 for his four years' of service. In our opinion this large sum should have secured the people a better administration of this office than we have had. Under the new County Sovernment Bill this excessive compensation will cease with the present administration.

"We recommend the system of assessment by blocks and by grouping lots in the same block owned by the same person, as pursued in other counties of the State; as it would materially reduce the volume of the assessment roll and the expense of preparing the same, and would result in great convenience to the taxpayer and facilitate the collection of taxes.

SLAUGTER-HOUSES.

"In the beginning of our session com-"In the beginning of our session complaint was made of the condition of the slaughter-houses supplying meat to this city and county. The jury entered into thorough investigation of the same resulting in the indictment of three offenders. Since then we have caused some of these places to be rexamined and find a commendable improvement except in the place of Charles Gassen, where the condition of affairs seemed to be even worse than when the indictment was found. The jury has therefore instructed the District Attorney to bring civil action for the abatement of this nuisance.

THE PESTHOUSE.

THE PESTHOUSE. "The jury found everything here in good condition in respect to general cleanliness and tidiness. The main good condition in respect to general cleanliness and tidiness. The main building is a two-story wooden building in a bad state of preservation. It sits so close to the ground that lack of ventilation has caused decay of the floor and timbers. The rooms are small, without ventilation and with crude and inadequate means of warming. There are several rough board structures at some liftle distance from the main building, neatly whitewashed, to be used when occasion requires. The lot on which these are situated descends rapidly from rear to front, and the quantity of water is very great, which settles down around and about the house, rendering it damp and accelerating its decay. There is, and can be, no proper system of sewerage. In our opinion this property should be disposed of at the earliest date practicable, and a new building be erected on a site where good drainage can be had and where sunshine can reach it at any hour of the day. This, in our opinion, need not require any excessive expenditure, possibly a sum not larger than this property can be sold for.

"The humane view of the case demands it as well as a due regard for the health of our citizens, and we urgently recommend it. We would also suggest that the old bedding, blankets, etc., now stored in one of the outbuildings be condemned and destroyed.

Twe examined this institution and found all the buildings and grounds well kept and in good order. There are at present some 340 boys and sixty-eight girls in this school. Their time is fully occupied by a diversity of commendable employments; in the work-rooms, schoolrooms, care of grounds and recreation.

"There is plainly evinced by all the officers connected with this institution a hearty sympathy for the inmates, and a desire to so instruct them in the useful arts, and educate them, that they may become useful citizens. We regard the work done here as of high value to the community, and we hope the system in vogue here for the protection of the young will be extended, so that a career of crime will not be the only way a boy will have to obtain an education at the public expense that will fit him for a useful life. "We recommend that this school be put on the same basis as our State Normal and our State University, and the counties not be charged up with anything special, but the expense of the school be paid out out of the general funds. There should be 160 more acres of land. Then garden, orchard and deary work could be increased and outdoor employement given to many more of the boys and girls, and make the revenue of the place much greater than at present.

"We also recommend an appropriation for additional shops and trades buildings, to accommodate the increased number of inmates; also an appropriation for fitting up the attle of the main building, which is now in an unfurnished state, and which could be utilized if it were properly ditted up.

CITY JAIL.

CITY JAIL.

"In the examination of this institution we found an inexcusable state of affairs. We consider the prison insecure. The cells are damp and cold and without means of warming. The building is badly effected throughout by sewer gas. There is no suitable place for the detention of witnesses, separate apartment for female or juvenile prisoners nor for the matron to care for sick women and children brought to the Receiving Hospital; fielther is there a room where a portion of the force can be held in reserve.

"The Receiving Hospital is entirely too small. There are now confined sixty or seventy persons in this close, loudsmelling place. The Receiving Hospital is the colls where a prisoner can be confined. Under the circumstances it is surprising that the place is kept as clean as it is. "There is urgent necessity for more suitable quarters.

We suggest that the office and reception-room be provided with furnishings needed for the more orderly and safe-keeping of books and papers, and for the convenience of persons who have occasion to visit it for the transaction of business."

The Grand Jury Finds an Indictment Against Vignes.

The grand jury last evening returned an indictment against H. C. Vignes, ex-deputy sheriff, in which a charge of perjury is said to be lodged against the young ex-officer in conection with the case of misconduct in office.

Last week the jury accused Vignes of having acted in a wrongful manner in his dealings with a prisoner named Ewing, and they now bring in the charge of perjury. Hearing in the first case was to come up on Monday next.

After receiving the indictment last evening Judge Smith fixed the bond at $2000.

Vignes was affested last night, but was at once released on bail.

Belts are made with long sash ends falling from either side of the front. The usual model is a folded belt, fastening with a buckle, or rather passing through a buckle at each side of the front, the end in each case forming a rosette in the buckle and then falling to the edge of the skirt, where it is finished with a frill of either black or white lace. There is a tendency to widen the sash toward the end, and thus emphasize the effect of flare. Folded collars are made to match, with tab-like pieces falling from choux to either side of the front of the collar. "In the matter of royalty, the sum paid to the American Bell Telephone Company of Boston may seem large, but for this we have the use of a vast number of patents, covering switch-boards, bells, office contrivances and devices, with which the public are unfamiliar, but without which a telephone exchange canot be successfully conducted. For this we are also furnished carbon, transmitters of all forms, including the Blake and long-distance instruments, without which we could not furnish a service with which the public would be content."

President Sabin · stated that it is fairer that the charges for use of telephones should be by the amount of service or in other words, according to the number of connections, rather than to fix the price at a certain amount for each instrument, no matter how much it is used.

It was further stated that in the telephone business it is found the larger number of telephones is used in one exchange the more it costs per telephone for operation and maintenance. Wires and other equipments must be kept constantly in readiness for use in all of the telephones in an exchange, yet any certain one of the wires is in use but a small fraction of the time.

The whole system, he said, has to be changed once in from three to five years. The Los Angeles system is now being put in new for the fourth time.

Asked in reference to complaints made thait the company is charging a bonus for putting in telephones, Mr. Sabin said that during the past year and a half he believed that not more than six of the telephones put in had been charged for in that way. This extra charge is only made in individual cases where it is necessary to put in a long line of wire for it. In cases where such bonus is charged the company would rather not have the telephone connected with the system than to have it.

netto telephones, four or five on a line, and have them connected with the main system for $2 per month. It will be for the people to say whether that kind of telephones will work satiskind of telephones will work satisfactorily.

The Boston and San Francisco exchanges were cited as fair instances for comparison. The charges for telephones in Boston were stated to be $10 per month or $15 per month for a telephone with a metallic circuit. The charges in San Francisco, where the service is about the same, are $5 per month and 5 cents for every switch. This places the matter on a basis where the subscribers who do the heavier business have to pay proportionately.

where the subscribers who do the heavier business have to pay proportionately.

Asked if the company had not recently raised the rates here Mr. Sabin said the idea is a mistaken one. The change has been from $6 per month to a rate of $1 per month and 2 cents for each switch. By charging the subscriber who has but few connections is not obliged to pay a share of what should be paid by the subscriber having a large number of connections.

The /company's representatives argued that to have an opposition telephone system established in a town is certain to result in the survival of the fittest.

Before leaving the committee-room they stated they will be glad to place before the committee any figures or statistics showing the business the company is doing. Mr. Glass said that in asmuch as the public sometimes is inclined not to believe the statements made by a corporation, his company's would be pleased to show the items recorded on the company's books down to the smallest detail, if desired.

HIS ANNUAL DINNER.

President Huntington Entertains Railroad Workers.

A Pelicitous Speech by the Chief-The Rela tions Between Employer and Employee, With Something About Labor Unions.

President C. P. Huntington's annual ngton mansion on California street San Francisco, William H. Mills acted spoke felicitously as follows:

as toast-master, and Mr. Huntington spoke felicitously as follows:

"Since our last dinner we have learned more than one lesson, and we are not alone in this. In fact, I think the Southern Pacific Company is not making any greater grimaces when we think of the year 1893 than a good many other people who are not 'doing business at the old stand,' as the Southern Pacific is, but are taking orders from his honor, the court, through the mouths of its receivers. I think we may well congratulate ourselves on this good fortune. But I for one do not feel like exulting over our less fortunate friends, for their misfortune has not been the fault of the officers and workers who have managed those other railroad properties and who have tried, I am sure, to do their full duty toward the interest represented by ourselves has not met with disaster I am glad to say is due, in my opinion, to the efficiency of those who have stayed by it and given their best thought to the questions of its management.

THE WORST YEAR OF DEPRESSION. THE WORST YEAR OF DEPRESSION.

"Nothing else would have carried us through this worst year of depression through this worst year of depression that I have ever known. I had my paper on the market in 1837, in '73 and in '84—the periods of financial panic in this country—and never had one piece of it go to protest. In each of those years there were days that I think were worse, in the sharpness of their crisis and tremendous strain, than any day of the past year, but they were, fortunately, few.

"The Southern Pacific passed through the gale, like the good ship she is. If reefs were taken in her spreading sails it was only that she might be the steadler, and her course never once deviated from that point on the distant horizon where a safe harbor could be seen.

"But I do not want to talk to year.

tent horizon where a safe harbor could be seen.

"But I do not want to talk to you tonight about the things that are behind us, but of those questions that belong to the present and the future. I always feel in my happiest mood when I see around me the men who have worked so long by my side, each following his own line of duty, each a man of action, and my pleasure is heightened by the fact that I am able to greet you on this occasion in my own house and bid you welcome here. I have told you before, and I like to say it again and again, that the morale of the men who compose the working force of the Southern Pacific and associated companies is as high as, and, I believe, higher than that which distinguishes any other railroad corporation in the world. But I think we can raise it even above its present standtion in the world. But I think we can raise it even above its present stand-ard, not so much for the pay it might bring as for the greater opportunities it would present for doing good to those below you in the scale of work and wages.

LACK OF SYMPATHY.

"I think there is not enough sympathy between the employer and the employee, and for this unfortunate situation neither is wholly at fault. There is often a great indifference on the one side, and perhaps as often a jealous envy on the other. In the first place, the man of stronger nerve and energy, and self-confidence is almost certain to forge ahead of his fellows, and in fils eagerness to press forward scarcely drops his eyes to see whether there may be, perchance, some trampled form beneath his feet. And on the other hand, too often he who is distanced in the race stifles his admiration in his disappointment at his own incompetence and shouts "Whip behind." Out of the former are produced, in their extreme development, aristocracies and the rule of Caesars, and almost the first outgrowth of the latter is trades unionism.

SOMETHING ABOUT LABOR UNIONS. LACK OF SYMPATHY.

SOMETHING ABOUT LABOR UNIONS. "I do not share the belief that the labor union, in the abstract, is a mistake, for on its legitimate platform the conscientious workingman may confidently ask for justice and his individual rights. Does he get them to-day through his paternal society, whose avowed object is to better the condition of the workingman? I think not, Take any 100 men gathered together in labor; pick out from their midst the specially skillful, the most industrious, the ones who seek, by utilizing the hours that do not belong to their employers, to gain self-improvement, which shall lift them to a higher plane of thought and action. "What reward does the labor union offer them, except the assurance that the least efficient laborers of their class, who work by their side, and who, perhaps, spend their wages and their spare hours in the devices and haunts of idleness, are just as good as they are, and entitled to equal privileges and equal pay? It seems to me that the labor union goes only half way when it instructs its members regarding their rights and wrongs as a body, and has nothing to offer in furtherance of what should be the principal and proper object of its creation and advancement of its individuals. Its tendency seems to me always to bring its strongest elements down to a level with its weakest ones, instead of reversing the process and lifting up the lowest. The walking delegate has developed into the master instead of the servant of his people, and his mission appears to be to stop the wheels of industry, rather than to set more to rolling.

"I do not like to speak of these things tonight, when we are gathered together for the interchange of pleasant thoughts, but I feel the danger that is ahead of us, as American citizens, in the propagation of doctrines which are unsound at their foundations. The rules of life that are requisite to success are so very few and simple that the average wageworker needs no one to instruct him in them. Work swith an honesty of purpose and live on less than you make,' is one of them, and if a young man begins, continues and acts on this he is certain to build up a fortune."

little folks; seaside hats, new, $1.25, one of the taking styles of the season; children's sun bonnets from 25c to $2 they are beauties; ladies' sunbonnets 50c. 75c, $1; children's hats in all colors, 50c and 75c; third lot inside of 30 days; the best sellers we ever carried. A new lot of blouse waists $1; note specially we have not a blouse waist that we carried over from last season; a good reason why; you should look through the assortment, nearly 1000 different patterns and styles to select from, 50c to $2; ladies' nightgowns, the good generous kind, 75c to $3; ladies' drawers, 25c to $2; ladies' white skirts, 75c to $3; ladies' corset covers, 25c to $1.50. Particularly note the fact that all underwear is made full size, full length, best material, new trimmings and new styles; the prices are no more than the ordinary skimped goods will cost you. The Dress Goods Department is selling Swivel silks for 75c a yard, 27 inches wide; Surah silks 35c, 50c, 75c, $1; India Silks 50c, 75c, $1; natural pongees, 25c, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c a yard; pongee silk embroidery, pongee colored laces in matched patterns, with insertions; black laces, butter color Point de Venise laces, embroideries and veilings; one of the strongest departments in the house; everything that is new, stylish and reasonable in laces, and what is there that is not stylish in laces. Narrow gimps for headings: ladies' chemisettes 50c and 75c with cutfs to match. Moire ribbons in all widths and colors, including wide black Moire Sash Ribbons. Carriage parasols 75c upward; silk parasols $1 up to $6.50; hardly anything but navy blues and blacks are used this season. The Wash Dréss Goods Department shows corded and figured organdies for 12½c; black lace stripe small figured organdies 25c a yard, equal in style to the best French goods that sell for more than double. Figured Moire French Sateens 50c a yard, the finest cotton goods produced, equal in appearance to high grade silks—better for wear. Outing flannels, 10c to 163c in extra choice patterns; French penangs, American percales, German print, a combination and consolidation of three countries in one. Small neat patterns in India, Irish and Romadon lawns. Figured ducks, one of the favorites for the season, extra wide, 15c a yard, in a large assortment of patterns; have you seen them? They are new and decidedly popular. All along the dress goods counter you will see new faces, you will not miss any of the old. That shows the steady, upward growth of this business,

Dr. Wong's SANITARIUM!

Four years ago my daughter, Virginia Bell, was treated by Dr. Wong for what pay sicians called hip disease, and had pronunced incurable after treating her for eight years. Dr. Wong's diagnosis was that she was amicted with one of thirteen forms of cancer. His medicine effected a permanent cure in seven months' time. Two years ago my grandson became blind in one eye. Dr. Wong restored his sight in three weeks time. A LASSWELL, Savannah, Calafter, I had been treated eleven years by

The Law in the Case.

The Law in the Case.

Section 538 of the Penal Code, approved March 10, 1893, "relating to misrepresentations as to circulation by proprietors of newspapers and periodicals, for the purpose of obtaining patronage." makes such misrepresentations a misdemeanor. Thus any publisher guilty of misrepresenting the circulation of his paper can be proceeded against by law.

Our pressroom and circulation books are open for the inspection of advertisers at all times. We also refer any advertiser who may desire to make further inquiry, to our agents (who are also agents for the other Los Angeles papers.) at the places named in the above list, for a verification of our statements in each case. The net daily average circulation of The Times is equal to two and one-half times that of any other Los Angeles paper. Sworn statements of net paid dirculation are made monthly,

BUSINESS. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, LOS ANGINLES, May 1, 1894.

There is a firm feeling in the general produce market, and an advance in prices

California Pruit. ST. LOUIS, May 1.—(Special Dispatch.) The orenge market is dull and weak. The fult is in large supply and moving slowly, although previous quotations are maintained.

Shares and Money.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The transactions on the Stock Exchange were considerable less than yesterday, but the trading was more widely distributed and the general tone of the market was better. Sugar was again leader of the speculation, but the volume of business therein was decreased by nearly one-half and there was evidence of liquidation by the bull pool in the stock in the very free supply of the shares. The talk of favorable tariff changes was less confident, and altogether it was less favorable to a future advance in prices of the stock. At the opening free offerings were made and prices declined today gradually until 10 was reached, which is a loss of 1% from yesterday's closing figures. Then a good buying movement was developed, which was largely to cover short contracts, and a gain of 1% was effected, followed by a reaction of 1%, and a final recovery of 1 per cent. Sugar preferred declined 1½, but declined ½ per cent. at the close. Reading was most active and depressed by reports of difficulties in the way of reorganization.

The grangers were among the most strong stocks. Burlington was the firmest. The publication of March carnings caused the shorts to cover. This sent prices up after an opening decline of %, the advances ranging from 2½,62% per cent., and being most pronounced in that dealings. The closing price was within % per cent. of the highest. St. Paul made a gain of %; Rock Island %, and Northwestern % per cent.

The general market opened weak and a fraction lower, but quickly recovered the shorts to cover. This sent prices up after an opening decline of %, the advances ranging from 2½,62% per cent., and being most pronounced in that dealings. The closing price was within % per cent. of the highest. St. Paul made a gain of %; Rock Island %, and Northwestern % per cent.

The general market opened weak and a fraction lower, but quickly recovered the first hour, notably Aperican Tobacco preferred, which lost 1 per cent.

CHICAGO, May 1.—May deliveries in Associated Press Leased-wire Service,
CHICAGO, May I.—May deliveries in grain and provisions were made today with surprising smoothness, and the bulls put up the price of wheat about ½c for July. Later they discovered that their congratulations had been premature when wheat on favorable conditions, was taking a 1-cent tumble, which resulted in a loss for the day of ½c per bushel. The deliveries of May wheat before the opening were very light considering the large stocks. The estimates of the quantity delivered varied from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels. The trade evidently considered them little enough to be encouraging to the buil side of the market, which started strong at about ½c over the closing prices of the previous day. May for an instant sold at 53½, but 53½ was immediately touched, and offerings became at once very light. It gradually worked up in the next hour until it reached 59. July was firm at the opening, and advanced ½c, but it had a weaker quarter of an hour when the Balitic and other foreign ports were reported as having shipped $2,0000 bushels in wheat and flour, Buying by the Anglo Packing Company put May, the spread between at the opening, to 159, and narrowed it and July from 23, clater. The demand the price fell off to 58%, after having touched 5914, but it recovered 14c at the class.

On a parity with the Liverpool market, spot wheat is worth here 2½,@5c, but call board buyers will pay 1.00@1.02½, per cental, and sales therefore are all in that direction. The tone of the market is showing more—ease, now that the month of May has arrived and deliveries on contracts are being made. Milling wheat is held at a range of 1.07½,@1.12½, though buyers are not inclined to pay the latter figure, placing 1.10 as their full limit.

though buyers are not inclined to pay the latter figure, placing 1.10 as their full limit.

Barley—Business just now is largely of speculative character, and there is quite lively trading in futures in the call board, the December option being the attractive month for operations. Spot movement is very slow and limited, the demand for feed hot being heavy, while the inquiry on milling account is anything but general or positive. Prices are fairly steady without being buoyant. Brewing qualities are somewhat scarce, and owners are not disposed to make concessions on asking prices. We quote: Feed, 1.02½@1.05 for fair to good, and 1.05½@1.17½ per cental.

Tae Wonld-be Blackmailer Again Escapes
Panishment.

T. J. Dorsey, an ex-policeman, appeared before Justice Austin yesterday for trial upon the charge of having disturbed the peace, but, to the surprise of all concerned, succeeded in proving an all bi and was acquitted.

From the evidence introduced for the prosecution it was gathered that on From the evidence introduced for the prosecution it was gathered that on Sunday evening, April 22, Miss N. E. Hand and a young man named G. J. Gunther disembarked from a street car, opposite the young lady's home. No. 1219 South Hope street, and stood at the gate for a few moments, before parting. Shortly after Gunther left, but, before he was out of sight, a man, whom Miss Hand positively identified as Dorsey, stepped up to her, and, after esking her who lived at the house, on the threshold of which she stood, announced that he was a detective and had been watching her. He then demanded hush money, threatening to inform her father of certain actions which he claimed to have witnessed. Scared at the man's attitude and bullying manner, Miss Hand screamed for help, and Gunther, who was still in sight, promptly ran back to her assistance. The man who had occasioned her fright coolly turned and walked walk as Ginther ran up, and, as the latter stopped to inquire of Miss Hand the cause of her trepidation, he was some distance waws before Gunther her fright coolly turned and walked away as Gunther ran up, and, as the latter stopped to inquire of Miss Hand the cause of her trepidation, he was some distance 'away before Gunther started after him. Both men ran down Twelfth street for a short distance, but, finding that Gunther was rapidly overhauling him, the bully stopped, and, drawing a "billy," threatened to beat his 'pursuer's brains out, if he followed Turther. Gunther promptly closed with the fellow, and, after being struck twice on the head and in throwing his opponent down and took the iweapon away from him. At this juncture, David Fikes, in front of whose residence the fight took place, came out and inquired what the trouble was, when Gunther explained matters briefly, and showed him the "billy." While Fikes was examining it, the fellow who had used it jumped up and attempted to recover it, but Fikes handed it to Gunther, and the bully finally walked off without it.

Next day the matter was reported to the police, who at once suspected Dorsey, upon learning the description of the would-be blackmaller. Both Miss Hand and Gunther were accordingly taken down to the paint shop of Mathews & Bosbyshell, on Los Angeles street, where Dorsey was employed, and each, without the slightest ployed, and each, without the slightest hestation, identified him as the man. In the face of this overwhelming argay of evidence, Dorsey and his wife and Ralph E. Davis, a roomer at their house, and brother of Mrs. Davis, swore unequivocally that the defendant was at home and in bed at the time of the commission of the offense, whereupon the court gave him the benefit of the doubt raised by the alibi and discharged him.

COOKED CRAWFISH.

to Market.
(San Francisco Bulletin, April 302) The crawfish, or California lobster, is to be found in all the markets of San Francisco, and in many quarters the er-Francisco, and in many quarters the erroneous opinion prevails that they are captured in this bay. Such is far from being the case, but in the warmer waters to the south they fairly swarm, and the islands off shore from Sants Barbara down to the Guif of Mexico are their favorite abiding places. Though so plentiful in those latitudes, the fish have never been particularly cheap in San Francisco, as a four-pound fish furnishes not more than a pound of meat, and owing to freight charges and the cost of catching and handling them, that one pound has averaged in the neighborhood of 35 cents to the consumer.

Some months ago a company was organized to land the crawfish here in quantities. A station was opened on one of the islands off San Diego, where they were to be caught, and the schooner Jennie Griffin chartered to bring the fish alive to this market. The scheme was a fallure. The fish were not caught in sufficient numbers to make up.a.cargo quickly and in consequence many died on the trip up. Those backing the scheme became disguised, as the expenses far exceeded the income, and gave up the enterprise. The op. rations had been watched with interest, however, by certain parties, who later formed the Pacific Coast Commercial Company, and the coachisin arrived at that crawfish could be landed in this city at a profit, but not "all alive and kicking," The instigators of the new company were Messrs. Hink and Carlson of this city, who are agents of the company here, and they had no difficulty in enlisting capital in the new venture. A station was erected on one of the islands in the Santa Barbara Channel over a month ago, a force of fishermen employed, and the first consignment was received here on the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer last Friday.

As stated the attempt to ship them alive has been given up, and the tish came up in 10-gallon kegs. They are cooked at the station as soon as caught, the meat taken out cooked and packed in vinegar in the kegs, and by the time they arrive here they are all ready to be made into salads. By the Lew arrangement nothing is lost, and the fish are in a healthy condition when cooked. No freight has to be paid on a useless lot of shells, and in consequence the tish can be laid down here cheaper than in any other manner. Of the original consignment all but sixteen barrels could have been disposed of here, but there were two orders of eight kegs each—me from Fresno, and the other from Tuscon—that had to be filled, and the fish were shipped to those places on Saturday. In speaking of the new enterprise fire fish can be laid down here cheaper than in any other manner. Of the Open their arrival the location ampany supposing something to be wrong with the alarm circuit, turned out, also, and both engines went chasing about for some time in search of a fire to put out. The mistake was finally explained and the crowd which had gathered upon the streets dispersed, only to collect again a few minutes later to learn the bause of a new sensalater to learn the cause of a new sensa-tion. Two of the firemen were ser tearing up the street at a breakneck gait, and quickly returned toward the inquiry at the house elicited the finformation that a child of Mr. Cless, who lives on Boyle avenue, had been taken with convulsions during the absence of the adult members of the family, and the supposition was that it had in some way got hold and eaten poison. The physician stated that the child merely had a fit as the result of cutting teeth, and for the second time the curiosity of the crowd was satisfied.

At 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while the city chain gang was at work upon the First-street hill, seven "longupon the First-street hill, seven "long-termers," who were under the supervision of Guard Townsend at the east end of the cut, made a concerted break for liberty, scattering in different directions. Townsend promptly drew his pistol, and, singling out a petty larcenist named Williams, fired a couple of shots at the fugitive. Falling to stop him the guard turned his attention to Joe Lint, another thief, who promptly threw up his hands and surrendered. An alarm was immediately telephoned to police headquarters and the patrol wagon with six officers was dispatched An alarm was immediately telephoned to police headquarters and the patrol wagon with six officers was dispatched to the scene on the dead run, it being feared that the break might become general. W. R. Williams and W. Morgan were captured by the mounted guard, meanwhile, and the remainder of the gang were promptly rounded up by the officers sent out to the assistance of the guards. The roll-call, however, developed that Brocky O'Neal, George Williams, Jack Mace and Jim Sullivan were missing.

Upon investigation it was found that the bars of the Yale locks attached to the shackles of the escapes had been sawn asunder in such a way that they could be broken with a pick or shovel at will. The steel saws with which this work was done were probably hidden in the vicinity of the cut by former members of the gang.

There were several rather importan cases on hand in the Superior Court yesterday, and all of the judges man-aged to put in a full day without diffiy. In Department One the jury in Castillo arson case brought in a verdict of guilty in the first degree and, later in the day, the grand jury enlivened matters somewhat by an indictment against ex-Deputy iff Vignes and presenting a partial report. This report covered the work of the jury from the time of its organization, and was comprehensive and to the point.

Chief Glass reported that at the inspection held shortly after the last previous meeting of the board, he read the ordinance to the policemen and instructed them to be very diligent in reporting any and all cases of violations. He had also told the officers that if they were to be dismissed from the force for not making such reports when they should, then they must not blame him for it.

Commissioner Weldon moved the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter, and Commissioners Bosbyshell and Weldon were thereupon named as such committee.

On motion of Commissioner Weldon a requisition for $20 to cover the expenses of printing 300 extra copies of the annual report of the Chief of Police, was approved and recommended to the Council for passage. The clerk was instructed to indorse on the requisition the statement that the extra copies are considered necessary for the public good.

The commission then went into the Mayor's private office, and with the usual stereotyped announcement informed the reporters that their absence would for awhile be more desirable than their presence.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE COURTS.

The Distance for Which Witnesses May Charge Mileage.

An opinion was rendered yesterday by Judge Clark on the motion to have costs of the defendant in the case of Tolfree vs. Chittenden taxed. Four witnesses, residents of Kern county, atended the trial of the case as witness: of behalf of the defendant and the latter in the bill of costs, inserted mileage fees for the witnessess for a dis tance of eighty-four miles.

The ruling of the court is quite a important one as it settles the matter of charging witness fees as mileage when the witnesses live at a distance of more than thirty miles from the county seat. The following is the sub tance of the opinion:

"Under the provision of sec. 1989 of the Code of Civil Procedure a witness is not obliged to attend before any court, judge, justice or other officer out of the county in which he resides unless the distance be less than thirty miles from the place of residence to the place of trial, and under the provision of sec. 2021 a party may obtain the testimony of such a non-resident witness by deposition. The contention of the plaintiff is that it was the duty of defendant if he desired the testimony of defendant if he desired the testimony of these witnesses to have taken their depositions; that the witnesses, being residents of another county and living more than thirty miles distant, were not obliged to attend. And their attendance being voluntary they were not entitled to fees and mileage. No precedent upon this question binding this court has been called to my attention. In the Federal statutes are to be found provisions similar to those cited above. Sec. 876, U.S. Statutes, revised, reads: Subpoenas for witnesses who are required to attend a court of the United States in any district may run into any other district; provided, that in civil cases the witnesses living out of the cases the witnesses living out of the district in which the court is held on not live at a greater distance than 10 miles from the place of holding the same.

"Whether under the proper construc-tion of this and other United States stat utes the prevailing party is entitled to have taxed as costs the fees and mile utes the prevailing party is entitled to have taxed as costs the fees and mileage of a witness who attends from witness the district and who has traveled a distance exceeding 100 miles, is a question upon which the Federal courts are conflicting. In Spaulding vs. Tucker and again in Haines vs. McLaughin, it was held that such rees and mileage could not be taxed as costs, the reason given being that no witness fees or mileage could be, allowed or taxed as costs under said sec. 846, unless the witness attended 'pursuant to law' and that no witness could be said to have attended pursuant to law except he attended under the obligatory requirements of the law. Upon the other hand, in United States vs. Sanborn, it was held to be immaterial whether the witness attended in obecience to a subpogna or not. If he voluntarily attended and came from with whether the witness attended in obeci-ence to a subpogna or not. If he volun-tarily attended and came from with-out the district and travejed a dis-tance exceeding 100 miles he was still entitled to his fees and mileage and the prevailing party to tax the same as costs. That the witness's attendance could not be compelled by subpogna, and that the party whose witness he was could have obtained his testimony. entitled to his fees and mileage and the prevailing party to tax the same as costs. That the witness's attendance could not be compelled by subpoena, and that the party witness he was could have obtained in the party of deposition was held not to change the rule. The same question was again the proving party, as in case of damages, to so conduct himself that the amount of costs or damage should not be unnecessarily increased. That while the many grice cases justifying the court in the exercise of a proper discretion held shortly after the last previous meetings. He inquired of the Chief if the places where liquor is sold are conducted on Sundays in compliance with ordinance.

Chief Glass reported that at the inspection held shortly after the last previous meeting of the board, he read the ordinance to the policement and instructed them to be very diligent to the statement that the inspection held shortly after the last previous meetings and a dilace conduction. He had also told the officers that if they were to be dismissed from the force for not making such as the right and opportunity to take the requirement of a committee to investigate the matter, and Commissioners Hospital and the previous proposed the party unnecessarily increase the amount of costs.

In the defendant's affidavit in opposition to the motion it is urged as a reason why he did not take depositions that he believed that the testimony of the witnesses present in court would have greater weight with the jury than if read from depositions. But, as said in Haines vs. McLaughlin, if a party is of the opinion that the testimony of a witness from the stand is more effective than when given by deposition, and he thinks it more to his interest to adopt a mode of producing testimony more expensive than that provided by law, he ought himself to pay the extraordinary expense over that arising through the ordinary mode provided for obtaining testimony.

The Fase of Mrs. N. M. Millit vs. Simona M. Bradbury, as executrix, and John Bradbury and J. D. Bicknell as executors of the last will and testament of Lewis L. She claims that she rendered service in the household of her brother and asks that $36,000 be awarded her out of the estate. The explosion which formed the cause for the action, was too disastrous to be soon forgotten by the people of this city. A large crowd had gathered on the Wolfskill tract to witness the fireworks, and while the mass of men, women and boys pressed close to the burning pieces, several mortars exploded, sending rough-edged fragments of iron into the crowd with frightful velocity. A number of persons were killed and others were maimed for life. The complaint in Mrs. Bunker's case charges lack of judgment in the management of the affair and incompetency of Wilson, the operator.

It was expected that the matter of the burning of crude petroleum as fuel by the oil prospectors in the district bounded by Lake Shore avenue. First, Ohio and Temple streets and Edgware road would be considered, and a delegation of citizens, headed by Arthur E. Olshausen, was on hand to present their grievances as set forth in a petition to the board published in The Times several days ago. The property-owners claim, that the disagreeable fumes from the pretroleum constitute a public nuisance, not only being a great inconvenience, but injurious to health. In fact, so bad is this muisance that several families have already agont the pretroleum constituted. moved out of the neighborhood, and other landlords have been served with notice by their tenants that they will leave if the nuisance is not abated. Heith Officer Powers was asked when there would be a chance of presenting the case to the board. He replied in about a month, and, when the indignant clitizens demurred to, this very leisurely manner of treating a subject that is of vital importance to them, they were coolly informed that if they were in a hurry about the matter they could go into the courts and get out an injunction, at a cost of $200 to $300.

The people in the district referred to are greatly worked up over the matter, and say they did not intend to let it drop. Many of them have for years been improving their property, and they say that they do not intend to give up without a struggle. THE O. R. & N. BONDS.

OMAHA, May, 1.—The Bee will say in its railroad column tomorrow that there is an extreme probability that the interest on the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's mortgage 5s and 6s will be defaulted for December. This will bring about foreclosure proceedings.

This is based on information privately received concerning the nature of the report made by the representatives of the foreign bondholders of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, Messrs. Daugherty and Cook These gentlemen went over the ground very thoroughly in January, and have reported, so the story goes, adversely to the Union Pacific. The management of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company is criticised severely, the report citing many instances in which terms and provisions of the lease have been ignored. So strong is the report that Oliver W. Mink, of the Union Pacific receivers, has prepared a refutation of the charges and findings of the committee which was filed along with the report. A gircular has been sent cut calling on bondholders of the issue mentioned to deposit them on or before May 25, in view of the probable defalcation of the December interest, so that foreclosure proceedings may be begun immediately. There is good reason for stating that a petition will soon be filed in the Circuit Court of Oregon for separate receivers, pending the foreclosure of the mortgage on the Oregon Railway and Navigation. UNIVERSITY DAY RECEPTION.

May day has been made a special holiday for the University of Southern California. Upon that day President and Mrs. Widney are at home to all the different faculties, and all students of all the various schools of the university. This includes the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Theology, the College of Medicine, the College of Agriculture, the School of Music and Escondido Seminary.

The great object of the day is to bring the different schools into close touch with each other and develop the broader university spirit.

The new university banner was displayed yesterday for the first time—a gold field, the university color, crossed in the upper left-hand corner with six stripes, royal purple for the College of Theology, indigo for the Escondido Seminary, blue for the School of Music, emerald green for the College of Medicine, olive green for the College of Agriculture, cardinal for the College of Liberal Arts; the letters "U.S.C." in the field, partly surrounded by a semicircle of six stars, one for each school. The university motto was displayed upon a shield below, green background, gold letters. It is "Deus, Literae, Scientia."

gold letters. It is "Deus, Literae, Scientia."

The faculties and students of the various schools wore each a rosette of the university gold, with the especial color of that school. The president and Mrs. and Miss Widney wore rosettes of the plain university gold. Two young ladies from each school, wearing shoulder knots of their respective college colors, assisted in receiving. They were: College of Music, Misses Luiu C. Johns, Lettie Williams, May Townsend; College of Liberal arts, Misses Nina Martin, Lura Whitlock, Ellen Sterling; College of Medicine, Miss Maud Mackey; Chaftey, Misses Fanny Sibley, Gertrude Hard.

The house was beautifully decorated with yellow Lady Banksia roses and Japanese bamboo. Refreshments were served.

d of Trade Meeting-Social and Person Notes-North Pasadena News-Matters Musical-Batch of Brevities.

PASADENA, May 1.— (Special Correspondence.) An adjourned annual meeting of the Board of Trade has been called for 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Hitherto it has been impossible to obtain a quorum, notwithstanding the fact that a new board of directors is to be elected, but at this meeting better things are hoped for, it being only reasonable to suppose that at least fifteen members will manifest sufficient interest in the future welfare of the organization to be present. Fifteen members constitute a quorum,

The importance of a wide-awake Board of Trade to every growing community like Pasadena needs no elaboration here, and that the local board has been productive of much good to the town admits of no dispute. It remains for the directors and members to show that they are still alive, so that when the secretary visits the headquarters Wednesday afternoon, he will not find the door locked, or himself the only would-be attendant. Mrs. Burnham, who resides on South Los Robles avenue, received a letter a day or two ago from her son, Fred Burnham, who has sprung into considerable notoriety as a scout during the Mattabele war in South Africa. Mr. Burnham writes that affairs have now assumed a peaceful phase in that far-off country, and that he is now developing the mining interests on his land with every prospect of success. He sent to his mother a number of minute gold nuggets, not much larger than pin heads, and globular for the most part, which can be worked into a pretty string of beads. Mrs. Burnham writes that she is well and enjoying life in Africa. She continues, however, to go about armed with a good-sized revolver, the affairs of the country being still such that she never knows when she is safe at the hands of the natives. G. A. R. Hall presented a very attractive appearance Monday evening on the occasion of a social gathering given by the Ladles of the Maccabees, who are becoming famous for their delightful entertainments. The hall was prettily decorated with flowers, principally roses, and a large number of guests were present. The Knights of the Maccabees were out in full force, and many of their friends were included in the invitations.

Music was furnished by Johnson's orchestra, and the Pasadena Mandolin-Club-Dancing was indulged in by the younger guests, and several whist tables were arranged for devotees of that game. Partners at cards were chosen by matching gentlemen's neckties with coquettish and useful aprons worn by the ladles, which original idea afforded much merriment. Refreshments, including ices and cake, were served, and a delightful evening was enjoyed. L. H. Buchahan added to the pleasure of the occasion by rendering two fine solos: The ladies having the matter in charge were Mrs. Conrad, Mrs. P. O. Prince, Mrs. Eyeston, Mrs. Slater, Mrs. Plant and Mrs. Fushia.

POMONA.

Plenty of Sugar Beets in Sight—The City Assessment Commenced.

POMONA, May 1.—(Special Correspondence), Notwithstanding some reports of loss of crops by the Chino sugar-beet growers this season have gone abroad, the Oxnard Beet-sugar Company finds that it will have a crop of from one-fourth to one-third more sugar beets at Chino this year than ever before. The dry weather has injured several hyddred acres of beets planted on the higher and dry lands of the Chino ranch, and a small area of beets has been abandoned as useless for a crop this year, but there will be a large and profitable yield of sugar beets on over 550 acres of the damp lands. The crop is growing so well that thinning out of the young beets has already been bebun. It is reckoned that the big factory and refinery will be opened for business about the middle of July or the first of August, and that there will be enough beets to keep it running day and night for over three months, perhaps over four months. A number of the more successful Chino sugar-beet-growers of the past few years say that they believe they will make as much money this year as ever, and that now they have learned the way to grow good beets and the best methods of harvesting and selling them, they can make more clear cash than in any previous season. In fact, the Chino beet-growers are all prospering, and they feel that this is to be a very successful year for them. All of which is joyful news for Chino and the Pomona Valley in general.

The work of assessing the property of the taxpayers within the city limits of the city of Pomona was commenced this morning by City Assessor W. W. Soper, and will be pushed as rapidly as practicable until the work is completed. It is the intention of the Assessor that the work be as thorough and full as all data within his possession, or that can be had, will enable him to make it.

Why cannot the Pomona Valley, either Pomona herself or some one of her desirable suburban localities, La Verne for instance, put forth a combined and energetic effort to secure the location of the Odd Fellows' Home for Southern California.

This evening being the time for "May baskets," advantage will be taken of the occasion by hundreds of Pomona's young people to secretly hang upon the doorshoo of "the imagined necessary addition to his or her life to insure a happy existence," a nicely-arranged and telling selection of flowers, the emblematic reading of which in the language of flowers, decides for weal or woe the fate of the recipient.

Exciting Races at the Santa Ana Track.

The Great Klamath Fully Up to His Old Standard-Co. F's Ball at the Armory-Society Wedding-

SANTA ANA, May 1.—(Special Correspondence.) Fully 500 people assembled at the racetrack this afternoon to witness the special speed programme furnished by several of Orange county's most popular flyers.

It was 2:45 o'clock before the first trio of racers faced the wire and came down for the word. The races were Raymond's Klamath, Bailey's Olinda Richmond and Morris's Jingfer. On the fifth score they got the word, with Olinda Richmond leading at the pole and Klamath trailling. Before the eighth pole was passed Klamath got down to work, and at the quarter in 34 seconds was rapidly closing up the gap. The half was passed in 1:10, and at the head of the stretch in 1:44% the trio faced the wire together. It was a pretty battle, Klamath passing under the wire in 2:19, making the last quarter in 32½ seconds, Jingfer second by half a length and Olinda Richmond third.

In the second heat Klamath led easily to the quarter in 35½, and to the half in not much more than a jog in 1:13. At the head of the stretch the three were again bunched, but Jingfer drew rather slowly away from her competitors, passing under the wire in 2:23½, Klamath a half length behind and Olinda Richmond third.

In the third heat Klamath led to the quarter in 35½, the half in 1:11, the head of the stretch in 1:48, and the wire a neck ahead of Jingfer in 2:19%, Olinda Richmond coming in six lengths behind. The second race was a half mile, best three in five, by Holcomb's Jennie June, Feiton & Robinson's Ketchum, and Morris's Black Pacer. When the word was given at the half mile post Jennie June ied slightly at the pole, maintaining the same all the way round, passing under the wire in 1:08%, three lengths ahead of the first quarter being made in 3 seconds. Ketchum, who was coming at a wonderful burst of speed, the Black Pacer falling into third place, a little lame.

The Black Pacer was excused in the second heat on account of lameness, Jennie June and Ketchum were sent away together, with the mare showing in the lead. This was the prettiest heat of

"DE KIDS AND DE COW BELLS."

May day, 1894, will long be remembered by scores of boys and girls from the country across the river in a very pleasant manner. In the early morning the sound of cow bells was heard from Fourth street in this city, and in a few moments the curbstone was lined with spectators to see what unusual demonstration was about to be made. In a few moments more several four-horse teams hove in sight, drawing large farm wasons heavily loaded with happy children, bound for the picnic grounds in Santiago Canpon, There were girls in the wasons and boys on top, hanging on the sides and running along behind. It was a great day for the children, and judging from the way they enjoyed themselves en route through this city it will long be remembered by them.

WHY SHOULD WOMEN VOTE?

A Prize Essay by a Pupil of the Pasadena High School.

Following is the essay which took the first prize of $5 in the recent contest. It was written by Wendal Tâylor, aged 18, a pupil in the Pasadena High School, ninth year:

"Time rolls his ceaseless course."

Eras come and go, ushering upon the world's arena wonderful events. Great Eras come and go, ushering upon the world's arena wonderful events. Great questions arise, have their day, and are settled, causing an advancement in the enlightenment of the human race, and preparing mankind for the more difficult questions that afterward arise.

In reviewing the great questions of race, and preparing mankind for the more difficult questions that afterward arise.

In reviewing the great questions of the past we find that they were founded upon moral principles, for it is moral principle that advocates the endowment of mankind with liberty and equality, and, being endowed with these, mankind may make rapid strides toward the plane of perfect enlightenment. The formation of our government was the practical solution of a great moral question then before the world, and, in later years, the preservation of our Union was the practical solution of a following and similar moral question of equal importance—"All men are created equal." These questions were settled aright, and because of fineir righteous settlement, American civilization has advanced, and America was and is better qualified to meet the deeper and more difficult questions that did and will arise afterward, for the principles that should govern mankind were more fully revealed.

It is, therefore, the privilege of those living in the present advanced age to settle one of the most important questions that has confronted the American people, namely, "Shall women vote?"—a question fraught with deep, moral principle.

It is an encouraging fact that

It is an encouraging fact that the content of the same transport with the content of American proper anamely, "Shall women vote?"—

It is an enough of the content of the co

vent of woman in an office raises the moral tone thereof. Woman raises the standard of our social and intellectual worlds, and, therefore, the advent of women in politics will materially raise them from their present level of corruption. Let us contrast with the disorderly Republican, sonvention, held at Minneapoils, and the disorderly Democratic convention, held at Chicagon the Prohibition National Convention, held at Chicagon the Prohibition National Convention, held at Chicagon the Prohibition National Prohibition Prohibition National Convention, held at Chicagon the Prohibition National Prohibition Prohibition National Convention, held at Chicagon the Prohibition National Prohibition Prohibition National Prohibition National Prohibition National Prohibition National Indiana, and the Prohibition Prohibition Prohibition National Indiana Prohibition Prohibi not accomplished in womanly virtues, but I am speaking of woman as a class.

The all-wise Creator saw that it was not good for man to be alone, and, accordingly, created woman to be his helpmate, to help him in the family, to help him in the business world, to help him in the social and intellectual worlds; yes, and to help him in the control of governmental affairs. God has never limited the sphere in which woman may assist man. If our government is "of the people," why is the less moral half only represented? As Frances Willard has said: "If prayer and womanly influence are doing so much for God by indirect methods, how shall it be when that electric force is brought to bear through the battery of the ballot box?"

Woman should be granted the ballot, because it is an injustice to retain the same from her. It violates true American sentiment. Our fath, ers fought and died for the principle that "taxation without representation" is unjust. And now, history repeats itself. As the Puritans, who came to the land to enjoy religious freedom, denied the right to Roger Williams, so the men of our country are denying woman one of the great revolutionary principles.

is involved. "All men are created equal." Remember that just before the Revolutionary War the colonists made it so uncomfortable for England that King George rescinded all taxes except a small one on tea, which he continued simply "to keep up the right" of taxation. The colonists resisted that tax "with more haste than ceremony," because they were fighting for principle. Some men, never losing sight of the all-important (?) fact that they are the "Lords of Creation," refuse the lealth to women simply "to keep up the right" of their supposed supremacy over them. Oh, haughty man! Listen to your doom! "He that exalteth himself shall be abased and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

It is asserted that woman's education is inadequate to make her an intelligent voter. Although I believe in an educational qualification; yet, as our suffrage system is not based upon one, nobody has any fight to raise that objection; but for argument's sake we will allow it to be raised and answer it. Girls surpass as students at the public schools. Out of the twenty-one pupils taken to the World's Fair and return during 1893, through the generosity of the San Francisco Examiner, thirteen, over 60 per cent., were girls. The paramount questions in the minds of thinking men are: "If granted the right to vote would not women become inflated with politics and neglect their home duties? And would not woman suffrage lower the husband in business, cleared a mortage on their farm and sent the children to school. Woman suffrage would not make women neglect their home duties, but bring those to light who do. Moreover, men should not raise the objection to woman suffrage that women would neglect their home duties, but bring those to light who do. Moreover, men should not raise the objection to woman suffrage that women would neglect their home duties, for they, themselves, are guilty of the same misdemeanor. "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones." Again, the moral standard of women would not be lowered any more than it

Out in a merry Western State
There dwelt an intellectual madam,
Who, when new fads were started round,
With great acuteness often had 'em.
Her chief concern was "woman's rights,"
And with a patience rarely noted,
She cheered her little band along,
Until, at last, she really voted.

Her step was proud, when at the polls
She gave her principles expression.
She went there with opinions firm,
Resolved to hear of no concession.
But good intentions often stray—
Mistakes will win, while wise men wonder. She found—and shed a little tear— Her single vote was quite snowed Across the line, not far away, Another woman lived obscurely.

She read the papers, as they came,
And told her views, though most de-

lows
To sons who sprang up, lad by lad,
Till they were seven manly fellow

And in the twilight of her life
She pondered well, while she was resting.
To make her mind up on some points
The villagers were then contesting.
She couldn't vote, but still they had
The benefit of her reflection;
For seven men went mother's way,
And seven carried the election.

THEY HAD A TASTE of Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. All the world likes it. All the world takes it. Goethe, Beethoven, Bismarck, kings and queens innumerable, nearly all the minds that have changed the course of affairs for centuries, have been to Carlsbad for bodily aid. You cannot go—but you can have the benefit of Carlsbad at home. Take the imported waters or the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt, or both, if you want an in-creased action of the same. They are natural remedies which are always effective in all disorders of the stomach, live and kidneys, in constipation, gouty and rhenmatic affections. Be sure to obtain the "genuine," which have the signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Co.," agents, New York, on every bottle.

The "Consumers' Fertilizer Company" Apparently Only Exists in Name.
Two weeks ago the following letter, which explains itself, was received at

The Times omce:
SATICOY, April 16, 1894.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Do you know anything about the Consumers' Fertilizer Company of No. 100 or No. 1100 Market street, San Francisco, who, until recently, kept an "ad" in your paper. I sent them a small order (with cash) for bone meal on January 29 and about one month later, in response to a letter of inquiry, was told that I would get my meal via Los Angeles in a few days. A second letter of inquiry sent a month later has not been answered, and I begin to think that I have been victimized. Yours truly,

The letter was mailed to the San Francisco representative of The Times with the request to make an investigation, the result of which is given in the following:

"I am afraid your correspondent at Saticoy has been, as he feared, victimized. The address of the Consumers' Fertilizer Company, as given in the San Francisco directory, is No. 1100 Market stret. This number is occupied by a cigar stand, the proprietor of which told me that the person who claimed to be the Fertilizer Company had asked him to permit the company to have its mail addressed to his store, which favor he had granted until he which favor he had granted until he earned that the person referred to had learned that the person referred to had had letter-heads printed indicating that the company's office was at No. 1100 Market street, and then he had shut off the privilege. He further said that the Consumers' Fertilizer Company was originally a Los Angeles scheme. The California Fertilizer Works a reputable, hesipose pany as the Consumers' was known to them.

"A further suspicious point in this matter is that there is no indication in the directory of the names of the men at the head of the company, nor any mention of the location of the works. I am very much afraid the Consumers' Fertilizer Company is a swindle."

Man Gets Away With a Horse and Cart and Goes on a Spree. Mrs. K. C. Burch of this city reported

it police headquarters yesterday morning that on Saturday last she had instructed a man named John Eckert to bring a two-year-old filly and an En-glish cart up from her ranch in San Bernardino county, but that he had not yet made his appearance and she feared that he might have sold the horse and rig and absconded with the proceeds. Detective Auble was detailed to work upon the case and found that Eckert arrived at Pomona on Saturday night and at once went on a drunk. While still intoxicated he drove out of Pomona on Sunday morning and was not again heard of until yesterday morning, when Marshal Buchanan of Pasadena arrested him for drunkenness. He was then in such a condition that nothing could be extracted from him, and the whereabouts of the horse and cart will probably not be ascertained until he sobers up sufficiently to remember what he did with them. vet made his appearance and she feared
